Mr. K. D. Khandare contextualized the aims and objectives of the workshop while giving the opening remarks about the Modi Script. Nowadays difficulty arises in the exploration of documents as previously it was captured in Modi Script and now it is difficult to translate as few people are capable of understanding the Modi script. That's why it is the need of an hour to learn the Modi script. Now a days it is compulsory to keep all the records under the act made by Government of Maharashtra which will be sorted out easily. In the perspective of the history and heritage framework, Dr. YadavGujar idealized the valor and heroism of Sambhaji Raje, the Maratha warrior in the annals of history. He touched upon the need to concentrate on the ancient as well as the modern Sanskrit language giving prominence to its metaphorical meaning.

During the first session of the workshop, Mr. K.D. Khandare, Assistant Director, Vidharbha Archaeological Society, Nagpur, elaborated in detail about record management, its uses and importance in contemporary timeline. He classified the records in the categories of A, B, C and D to maintain an untainted record room. Quoting examples from history Mr. Khandare elucidated how the different regions had their own record management systems. He stressed the need of record management for colleges briefing regarding the production and maintenance of the same. The technological advancement has propelled quite a few changes bringing in swift lifestyle which has resulted in record formation. But the requisite is to categorize the records in 'A' class.
